Boliden Mines seeks

Head of Section

Exploration Department, Tara Mines, Ireland

Tasks

As Head of Section, you will have responsibility for planning, initiating and supervising exploration projects along with a team of geologists and technicians reporting to you. In addition, you will prepare and perform exploration activities, be responsible for the budget of the section, supervise geologists, field technicians and contractors and relate to underground and mine geology personnel. You will also be responsible for communicating with landowners, Government Departments and other interested parties, participate in contract negotiations and report the results to management.

EHSQ is of high priority to Boliden and you are expected to take responsibility and act proactively in these matters. You must also be prepared to travel. This is a permanent, full-time position and based in Ireland.

Education and Experience

Candidates must have a university degree in geology with +10 years of experience in exploration and also ideally mine geology, along with previous managerial experience. The position requires an enthusiastic result orientated leader with the skills to communicate with and engage others. A full driver's licence is required.

Fluency in the English language both written and spoken is essential.

Information

For further information about the position please call Mie Munck, Manager Near Mine Exploration, phone +46 910 70 55 77.

Application

Please send in your application with CV via our website www.boliden.com – Career – Job Vacancies. Questions regarding your application will be answered by Eoghan O'Neill, phone +353 46 9082461

Contact from recruitment and staffing companies and media sales persons is declined without exception since Boliden manages the entire recruitment process itself.

Applications will be processed following the latest application date, which is 15th June 2018.
