Sponsors should be Professional Members of the IGI (PGeo), European Geologists (EurGeol.) or professional members of other professional organisations recognised for this purpose by the IGI Board. Employees should not sponsor a candidate who is their supervisor or employer.

The IGI is grateful for your willingness to assist the applicant and the IGI in ensuring that professional standards are maintained. Each sponsor's contribution is highly valued by the Institute. The sponsor assists the IGI by confirming the professionalism and experience of the candidate. In completing this form, you are reminded of the following principal requirements of the IGI when considering the application under review:

- The applicant has a primary degree in geology, geoscience, or equivalent approved by the Council or produce evidence that he/she has such degree or other equivalent to an approved degree;
- The applicant is of good character and aware of the standards required by the profession, in particular as expressed in the Institute's Code of Ethics;

In addition, for applicants for Professional Membership (PGeo):

- The applicant has at least five years of professional experience in applying his/her knowledge and training to the practice of his/her area of geological expertise;
- The applicant has experience in both oral and written communication to the standards required by the profession. You are also requested to initial those parts of the candidate's application form with which you are familiar as confirmation of those aspects of his/her experience and training. If you are familiar with the candidate's education please initial the degree certificate(s) provided with the application. Each candidate for Professional Membership will have three sponsors but only one sponsor's initials are requested for each item. Candidates for Membership-in-Training or Associate Membership will normally have only one sponsor.
